GENERAL INFORMATION

MAPS. — Large maps are to be found : a) outside, at the entrance of every Metro station ; b) near the ticket Office ; c) on every platform.

On the maps each line carries a number. Directions, however, are usually given by indicating the name of the end-stations of the lines.

DIRECTIONS.

The name of each station, in large white letters on a blue background, is repeated on the walls between the advertisement frames. In the middle of the platform, hanging from the ceiling, a poster indicates the name of the last station towards which the trains are going. The way out is indicated by a sign lighted in yellow, reading « SORTIE ». (Exit.)

The corridors leading to the platforms of other lines are indicated by signs hanging from the ceiling, lighted in yellow, reading « CORRESPONDANCE ». Elevators where they exist, are indicated by lighted signs reading « ASCENSEUR ». (Elevator.)

— By means of its 14 lines stretching over 86.4 miles underground, 6 miles in the open air and its 348 stations, the Metro can take you almost anywhere in Paris and the suburbs.

— There are a few Stations that are closed ; do not plan on getting off at these Stations.
